"Harry Potter and the Prince" at 1.5 billion, the Warner Bros. film franchise is the most money-making, least in dollars.

The five Harry Potter movies have grossed $7.5 billion worldwide, but still trails the round-the-world success by the James Bond franchise (not accounting for the boy wizard). The James Bond movies take agent 007 around the world.

The large James Bond franchise's total worldwide gross is overseas, while the book series has been translated into 67 languages.

"Half-Blood Prince," originally set to open in July, has been delayed by the studio pending further testing. The postponement is
